Here's a whirlwind tour of some of the best things to see and do in London in just 4 hours:

1. Visit the Tower of London

The Tower of London is a historic castle that has been used as a royal palace, a prison, and an execution site. It's one of the most popular tourist attractions in London, and for good reason. The Tower is home to the Crown Jewels, a collection of priceless jewels that have been worn by British monarchs for centuries. You can also take a tour of the Tower's dungeons, where you'll learn about the many prisoners who have been held here over the years.

2. Take a walk across Tower Bridge

Tower Bridge is a bascule bridge that crosses the River Thames. It's one of the most iconic landmarks in London, and it's a great place to take a walk and enjoy the views of the city. You can also take a tour of the bridge's interior, where you'll learn about its history and construction.

3. Visit the British Museum

The British Museum is one of the largest and most comprehensive museums in the world. It's home to a vast collection of artifacts from around the world, including the Rosetta Stone, the Elgin Marbles, and the mummy of Ramses II. You could easily spend hours exploring the British Museum, but if you're short on time, focus on the highlights.

4. Take a ride on the London Eye

The London Eye is a cantilevered observation wheel on the South Bank of the River Thames. It's one of the most popular tourist attractions in London, and it offers stunning views of the city. You can take a ride on the London Eye for a few minutes or for up to 30 minutes, depending on how much time you have.

5. Visit Buckingham Palace

Buckingham Palace is the official residence of the British monarch. It's a large, opulent palace that's open to the public for tours during the summer months. You can take a tour of the State Rooms, where you'll see the throne room, the grand staircase, and the ballroom. You can also visit the Royal Mews, where you'll see the royal carriages and horses.

6. Take a walk through Hyde Park

Hyde Park is one of the largest and most famous parks in London. It's a great place to relax and take a walk, or to enjoy a picnic lunch. You can also visit the Serpentine Gallery, which hosts contemporary art exhibitions, or take a boat ride on the Serpentine Lake.

7. Visit the Houses of Parliament

The Houses of Parliament is the seat of the British Parliament. It's a large, Gothic building that's located on the banks of the River Thames. You can take a tour of the Houses of Parliament, where you'll see the House of Commons, the House of Lords, and the Central Lobby. You can also visit the Westminster Abbey, which is located next to the Houses of Parliament.

8. Take a walk down Oxford Street

Oxford Street is one of the busiest shopping streets in the world. It's home to a wide variety of shops, from department stores to high-end boutiques. You can easily spend hours shopping on Oxford Street, or you can just take a walk and window-shop.

9. Visit the National Gallery

The National Gallery is one of the most important art museums in the world. It's home to a vast collection of paintings from the 13th century to the 20th century. You could easily spend hours exploring the National Gallery, but if you're short on time, focus on the highlights.

10. Take a ride on the Tube

The Tube is the London Underground, a rapid transit system that serves the Greater London area. It's one of the oldest and largest underground railway systems in the world. You can use the Tube to get around London quickly and easily. Just be sure to buy an Oyster card, which will give you a discount on your fares.

These are just a few of the many things you can see and do in London in just 4 hours. If you're looking for a whirlwind tour of the city, this is the perfect itinerary for you. Just be sure to plan your route ahead of time, so you can make the most of your time.
