Phoebe James' debut novel, 'Eppinette', is a coming-of-age story that explores the themes of family, identity, and the challenges of growing up in a small town. The novel's protagonist, Eppinette, is a young woman who is struggling to find her place in the world. She is torn between her desire to leave her small town and her love for her family.

Eppinette is a complex and relatable character. She is intelligent, ambitious, and has a strong sense of self. However, she is also insecure and unsure of her place in the world. She feels like she doesn't belong in her small town, but she also doesn't know where else she would go.

Eppinette's journey of self-discovery is both heartbreaking and inspiring. She makes mistakes along the way, but she also learns from them. She eventually comes to realize that she can't escape her past, but she can choose how to define it. She can choose to be defined by her mistakes, or she can choose to be defined by her strength and resilience.

'Eppinette' is a beautifully written and moving novel that will resonate with readers of all ages. James' prose is lyrical and evocative, and she creates a vivid and unforgettable world for her characters. 'Eppinette' is a story about the challenges of growing up, but it is also a story about hope and redemption. It is a novel that will stay with readers long after they finish it.

Themes in 'Eppinette'

The novel 'Eppinette' explores a number of themes, including:

- Family: Eppinette's family is the most important thing in her life. She loves her parents and her siblings dearly, and she would do anything for them. However, she also feels like she is different from her family. She is more ambitious and driven than they are, and she has a different vision for her future.
- Identity: Eppinette is struggling to find her identity. She doesn't know who she is or what she wants to do with her life. She feels like she is always trying to live up to other people's expectations, and she is not sure what she really wants for herself.
- Growing up: Eppinette is coming of age in a small town. She is surrounded by people who have known her since she was a child. She feels like she is being watched and judged all the time. She is eager to leave her small town and start a new life for herself, but she is also afraid of the unknown.
