The Triumph Tiger Cub is one of the most iconic motorcycles ever made. First produced in 1953, the Tiger Cub was a popular choice for both commuters and enthusiasts alike. With its simple design and reliable engine, the Tiger Cub was a great choice for new riders and experienced riders alike.

The History of the Triumph Tiger Cub

The Triumph Tiger Cub was developed in response to the growing demand for small, lightweight motorcycles in the post-war period. Triumph had already produced a number of successful small motorcycles, including the Tiger 80 and the Tiger 90. However, these motorcycles were still relatively large and heavy. The Tiger Cub was designed to be a more compact and affordable option.

The Tiger Cub was first introduced in 1953. The motorcycle was an instant success, and it quickly became one of Triumph's best-selling models. The Tiger Cub was produced for over a decade, and it was exported to countries all over the world.

The Specifications of the Triumph Tiger Cub

The Triumph Tiger Cub was a small, lightweight motorcycle. The motorcycle had a wheelbase of 50 inches and a weight of just 220 pounds. The Tiger Cub was powered by a single-cylinder, two-stroke engine that produced 4 horsepower. The engine was mated to a four-speed transmission.

The Tiger Cub was a simple motorcycle to operate. The motorcycle had a hand clutch and a foot-operated gear shift. The Tiger Cub also had a kickstarter and a decompression lever. The decompression lever allowed the rider to start the engine without having to use the kickstarter.

The Performance of the Triumph Tiger Cub

The Triumph Tiger Cub was not a fast motorcycle. The motorcycle had a top speed of just 60 mph. However, the Tiger Cub was a very good handling motorcycle. The motorcycle was easy to maneuver and it was a great choice for riding in traffic.

The Tiger Cub was also a very fuel-efficient motorcycle. The motorcycle could get up to 100 mpg. This made the Tiger Cub a great choice for commuting.

The Maintenance of the Triumph Tiger Cub

The Triumph Tiger Cub was a relatively easy motorcycle to maintain. The motorcycle had a simple design and there were few moving parts. The Tiger Cub also had a number of features that made it easy to service. For example, the motorcycle had a removable oil filter and a grease nipple on the steering head.

The Tiger Cub was also a very reliable motorcycle. The motorcycle was well-built and it could withstand a lot of abuse. The Tiger Cub was also very easy to start, even in cold weather.

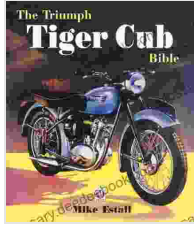

The Triumph Tiger Cub Today

The Triumph Tiger Cub is still a popular motorcycle today. The motorcycle is a great choice for classic motorcycle enthusiasts. The Tiger Cub is also a great choice for new riders who are looking for a simple and reliable motorcycle.

There are a number of different ways to find a Triumph Tiger Cub. You can find Tiger Cubs for sale online, at classic motorcycle shows, and at motorcycle dealerships.

If you are looking for a Triumph Tiger Cub, be sure to do your research. There are a number of different models and years of the Tiger Cub available. You should also be prepared to pay a premium for a well-maintained Tiger Cub.

The Triumph Tiger Cub is an iconic motorcycle that is still popular today. The motorcycle is a great choice for classic motorcycle enthusiasts and new riders alike. If you are looking for a simple, reliable, and fun motorcycle, the Triumph Tiger Cub is a great option.
